When girls and women are connected to the world through technology, they are connected to a world of opportunity. Technology functions as a gateway to ideas, resources, and opportunities that never could have been realized before. All around the world, the Internet is helping people to imagine new possibilities. But girls and women are being left behind. Although access to the internet is on the increase, women are almost 25% less likely than men to be online. This gender gap is 43% in Sub-Saharan Africa. Through the Intel® She Will Connect program and other digital empowerment initiatives, Intel is empowering millions of women to connect to a range of new opportunities through technology.
