

David Gonzalez
Director of Technology, Advanced Manufacturing Department

Spain

David Gonzalez is a technical manager bringing over 18 years' experience in technology development, business management and marketing. His main working areas are advanced manufacturing (industry 4.0), materials science and nanotechnology. With over 3 years working experience abroad (Finland and United Kingdom). Strength for the development of business units including strategic planning and team management. Strong experience in commercialization of high technology products and services. High competence in international commerce. Background on defining and implementing R&D strategies with valuable knowledge of the innovation environment at international level. Participation in over 50 collaborative innovation projects in medical, aeronautic and energy sector. Keywords: business development, manufacturing, 3D printing, materials, nanotechnology, innovation.