The Terms of Reference (ToR) for this Preliminary study consist in one single page, which is the first page after this one.

The following pages represent the draft ToR for the evaluation as such. They will be updated based on the present Preliminary study.

THEMATIC EVALUATION OF THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION SUPPORT TO CONFLICT PREVENTION AND PEACE BUILDING –

phase 1

Taking into account the draft terms of reference for and in preparation of the thematic evaluation of EC support to Conflict prevention and peace building, a preliminary study will be commissioned to achieve two outputs:

Scoping of the subject area, to be validated by the Reference group. The working definition will serve as a basis for the evaluation. The scoping exercise will cover inter alia:

- The evaluation's regulatory framework, its context, main users and expected uses;
- The evaluation's central scope;
- The scope extended to related policies;
- The intervention logic according to official documents;

Mapping all EC financial flows (commitments and disbursements) in the domain covered by the Evaluation and as described in the above working definition during the first part of the deskphase. Temporal scope is 2001-2008 and the typology of these contributions (source, activity/function/role, channel, sector, geographic sub-area/country) are to be listed; As far as possible the interventions have to be listed (projects, programmes etc).

The outputs and their results will be integrated into the draft terms of reference for the evaluation study (attached) which will be modified accordingly.

Both outputs will be delivered in paper (20 copies) and electronic version (25 CD ROMs).

The workplan will be presented in the technical offer by the consultant. The budget will not be higher than 120 000 Euros.

1. MANDATE AND OBJECTIVES

Systematic and timely evaluation of its expenditure programmes is a priority of the European Commission (EC). It is key to account for the management of the allocated funds and for promoting a lesson-learning culture throughout the organisation. The focus is on the impact (effects) of these programmes against a background of greater concentration of external co-operation and increasing emphasis on result-oriented approaches, particularly in the context of the programmes of the Relex Family of Directorates-General<sup>1</sup>.

The evaluation of the Commission's support to conflict prevention (including crisis resolution) and peace building (including demobilisation, disarmament and reintegration) is part of the 2008 evaluation programme as approved by the External Relations and Development Commissioners.

The main objectives of the evaluation are:

- to provide the relevant external co-operation services of the EC and the wider public with an overall independent assessment of the Commission's past and current cooperation support to Conflict Prevention (including crisis resolution) and Peace Building (including demobilisation, disarmament and reintegration) .
- To identify key lessons in order to improve the current and future strategies and programmes of the Commission.

2. BACKGROUND

2.1 Policy background

2.1.1 History

In the 1990's there was growing concern that many developing countries were failing to achieve sustainable development owing to conflicts and insecurity.

In 1992 the Maastricht Treaty on European Union establishing the EU created a distinct 'second' pillar of the EU, namely the Common Foreign and Security Policy (CFSP). The scope of the CFSP is comprehensively defined as covering 'all areas of foreign and security policy', including 'to preserve peace and strengthen international security...'. The 1992 Report<sup>2</sup> to the European Council in Lisbon on the likely development of the CFSP stated "the CFSP should contribute to ensuring that the Union's external action is less reactive to events in the outside world and more active in [...] the creation of a more favourable international environment. This will enable the European Union to have an improved capacity to tackle problems at their roots in order to anticipate the outbreak of crises."

Africa, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) and the European Development Fund (EDF):

<sup>2</sup> By the Ministers of Foreign Affairs: http://www.europarl.europa.eu/summits/lisbon/default\_en.htm

In 1996 the communication “The EU and the issue of conflicts in Africa: peace-building, conflict prevention and beyond” (March 1996/ SEC (1996)332) underlined that “the prevention of conflicts should be at the centre of a comprehensive response of the European Union towards the issue of conflicts in Africa.” The communication also highlighted the importance of (political) analysis of root causes of conflict.

The difference between the Cotonou Agreement (2000) and its predecessor Lomé was the inclusion of a chapter on ‘The Political Dimension’ including a whole section (Article 11 – full text in box below) on ‘Peace-building policies, conflict prevention and resolution’. The Article outlines an approach to conflict that is broad, all encompassing and multifaceted and identifies appropriate measures to take at each point in the conflict cycle. Moreover, it allows to go beyond preventing conflict and, in Article 11.4, talks about the Parties taking ‘all suitable action’ to prevent the growth of violence both in terms of an intensification or of its spread. The proposed evaluation will also take into account the EC support to the African Peace facility.

DCI: Development Cooperation instrument<sup>3</sup>

The geographic cooperation under the DCI (approved 2006) is determined on a geographical basis and given to the countries of Latin America, Asia, Central Asia, the Middle East and South Africa. The types of actions foreseen under geographic programmes include also and specifically post crisis situations in fragile states.

The thematic cooperation also covers activities in the subject matter of the evaluation, notably ‘investing in people’ and ‘European Instrument for Democracy and Human Rights (EIDHR)’.

ENPI: European Neighbourhood Policy

Since the Barcelona Declaration of November 1995 which proposes the establishment of an ‘area of peace and security in the Mediterranean’ the EU has gradually developed first a Mediterranean policy (MEDA) and now a fuller Neighbourhood Policy. This has been realized through two EC communications. The first entitled ‘Wider World’ dates from March 2003 and has been updated by a Communication on European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP)<sup>4</sup>. These documents indicate a strong preoccupation with the security of Europe and the latter one makes direct reference to the European Security Strategy indicating that the ENP will also help to address the objectives of the ESS. At the same time the accent is still on partnership, that is: ‘burden-sharing and the joint responsibility for addressing threats to security created by conflict and insecurity’.

The presently most comprehensive policy document is the 2001 Communication from the Commission on Conflict Prevention /* COM/2001/0211 final */ , defining a new framework for action, reviewing main instruments in this field and putting forward recommendations for specific actions. The European Commission's operational approach to conflict prevention and peace-building is based on this Communication on Conflict Prevention, which focuses particularly on the root causes of conflicts and building sustainable peace. The Communication led to the endorsement of an "EU Programme for the Prevention of Violent Conflicts" by the Göteborg Summit in June 2001.

Certain aspects, notably the security dimension have been further outlined in subsequent documents, notably concerning Security sector reform (SSR; COM 2006-658), demilitarization, demobilization and reintegration (DDR; EU concept 2006 and Commission Staff Working Paper); processes, and actions to curb the proliferation of anti-personnel mines (APL; Regulation (EC) N°1724/2001, Regulation (EC) N°1725) and small arms and light weapons (SALW; EU strategy 2005).

The European Consensus on Development (Joint Statement 14820/05) further reiterates the importance of support to conflict prevention, stating "The EU will strengthen its efforts in conflict prevention work" and explicitly refers to the EU Programme for the Prevention of Violent Conflicts<sup>5</sup> in this context.

2.1.2 thematic scope

The Communication on Conflict Prevention sets out 4 main objectives:

1. Make more systematic and co-ordinated use of EU instruments to reach the root causes of conflict.
2. Improve the efficiency of actions targeting specific causes of conflict (so-called "cross-cutting issues", such as trafficking in drugs or human beings, illicit trade in diamonds and small arms, competition over scarce water resources etc).
3. Improve EU capacity to react quickly to nascent conflicts.
4. Promote international co-operation with all EU partners (partner countries, NGOs, international organisations such as UN, G8, OSCE, and ICRC as well as other regional organisations).

Between 2002 and 2006, the Rapid Reaction Mechanism was designed to allow the Community to respond urgently to the needs of countries threatened with or undergoing severe political instability or suffering from the effects of a technological or natural disaster. Its purpose is to support measures aimed at safeguarding or re-establishing the conditions under which the partner countries of the EC can pursue their long term development goals. The main added value of the RRM is its ability to provide support to the political strategy of the Commission faced with a crisis in a third country. The total budget for 2005 was €30 million, for example.

The Instrument for Stability (IfS) replaced, on 1 January 2007, both the Rapid Reaction Mechanism, and several instruments in the fields of drugs, mines, uprooted people, crisis management, rehabilitation and reconstruction, and allowed support to the United Nations Interim Mission in Kosovo and the office of the High Representative in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Subdivided into a short- and a long-term component, the aim of the IfS is threefold:

1- It aims in a situation of crisis or emerging crisis, to contribute to stability by providing an effective response to help preserve, and to establish or re-establish the conditions essential to the proper implementation of the community's development and cooperation policies. Crisis response projects under the Instrument for Stability focus on a wide range of issues, such as support to mediation, confidence building, interim administrations, strengthening Rule of Law, transitional Justice or the role of natural resources in conflict. Under the IfS, these activities can be supported in situations of crisis or emerging crisis, when timely financial help cannot be provided from other EU sources.

In its first year of operation IfS was used to finance a large number of crisis response projects worldwide with a total budget of €91 million. The largest share of funds was allocated to projects in Africa, followed by the Middle East, the Balkans, Latin America and the Caribbean, and Asia-Pacific.

2- The IfS aims, in the context of stable conditions for the implementation of Community cooperation policies in partner countries, to help build the capacity to address specific global and transregional threats with destabilising effects, such as proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, trafficking, terrorism and organised crime.

3- It aims, in the same stable context, to ensure preparedness of international and regional organisations, as well as state and non-state actors' to address pre- and post-crisis situations. The Peace-building Partnership is an innovative part of the IfS. It is established to strengthen civilian expertise for peace-building activities. It is created to deepen the dialogue between civil society and the EU institutions and it addresses, in particular, civil society organisations and think-tanks, but also covers relations with international organisations and agencies in EU Member States.

The budgetary allocation for the IfS for the period 2007-2013 amounts to €2,062 million, of which €1,487 million forms the short-term component and 484 million for the long-term component, excluding administrative expenditures.

In terms of building post-conflict peace, the Commission subscribes to the conflict-sensitive or 'do no harm' approach. This means ensuring that its activities are always carried out sensitively so as not to worsen the conflict dynamics.

The notion of integrated approach implies the need to make the concept of conflict prevention a horizontal issue in all common or sectoral policies of the Union. Respect for the existing and separate pillar structure of the EU still allows for coherent and coordinated interaction of European Union and European Community instruments. This point was endorsed by the European Council in Göteborg 2001. The debate within Europe on 'global governance' has focused attention on the direct impact of a range of EU policies on the stability of partner countries (e.g. debt relief, economic adjustment and transition, administrative efficiency, reform of International Financial Institutions, free trade agreements etc). Building on this Communication and on its own experience and views in this field, the Swedish Presidency launched, during its Presidency, the initiative of developing an EU Programme for the Prevention of Violent Conflicts. This Programme was adopted by the General Affairs Council on 11-12 June 2001 and endorsed by European Council at Göteborg.

2.1.3 other EU Policies

Other policies such as the ‘European Initiative for Democracy and Human Rights’ also include support for conflict prevention and resolution projects under the overall theme of democratisation, good governance and the rule of law. As well as funds earmarked for projects specific to conflict prevention it is important to note that other areas (e.g. addressing impunity through strengthening civil society, International Tribunals and the International Criminal Court, human rights training for relevant officials) all contribute to tackling the root causes of conflict.

The Commission also supports the Kimberley Process to stem the flow of so called ‘blood diamonds’ – rough diamonds used by rebel movements to finance wars against legitimate governments. The ‘Kimberley Process certification scheme’ (KPCS) has been in operation since 2003. It imposes extensive requirements on all Participants to certify the conflict-free origin of all exports of rough diamonds and has put in place rigorous domestic controls over diamond production and trade to prevent conflict diamonds entering the diamond pipeline. The European Community (EC) is a Participant in the KPCS, as foreseen by a Council Regulation ( 2368/2002), adopted on 20 December 2002<sup>6</sup>. The Regulation lays down the procedures and criteria to be followed in the import and export of rough diamonds into and from the EC, and creates a uniform EC Kimberley Process certificate which is used for all shipments.

2.1.4 Other international initiatives

The OECD/DAC work in the area of conflict prevention and peace-building is carried out primarily through its subsidiary body, the Network on Conflict, Peace and Development Co-operation (CPDC), now : "Initiative for peacebuilding". The European Commission participates actively in this group and fully uses the produced guidelines.

Effective co-ordination with international partners is important to achieving that goal. In accordance with the commitment of the European Union to promoting an effective multilateral system with the United Nations at its core, the EU has devoted particular attention to the activity of the UN High Level Panel on Threats, Challenges and Change. The Commission continues holding “desk-to-desk” dialogues with integrated UN teams as well as regular contact with the UN Framework Team in the area of conflict prevention. A strategic partnership between the Commission and UNDP was signed in 2004, where conflict prevention is one area for closer cooperation.

In 2005/2006 the Commission supported a pilot project to establish a Conflict Prevention Network on the basis of the European Parliament decision. The end result has been the implementation of the Conflict Prevention Partnership (CPP) headed by the International Crisis Group (ICG) in conjunction with three other NGOs working in the conflict prevention and peace building fields: namely International Alert, The European Policy Centre (EPC) and the European Peacebuilding Liaison Office (EPLO). In particular, the Partnership aims to strengthen the capacities of the European Union and its Member States in conflict prevention, crisis management and peacebuilding.

2.2 Definition of Conflict Prevention and Peace-Building

There is no internationally agreed definition of Conflict Prevention and Peace-Building. The available Commission descriptions of the scope of possible interventions are given in the Communication from the Commission on Conflict Prevention /* COM/2001/0211. It has to be underlined that subsequent papers, mentioned above, also bring additional aspects into the picture.

In order to clearly define the boundaries of the evaluation (the subject and scope) it has been decided to base the evaluation, as a first step, on the scope of the 2001 communication and to further describe the evolution of the concept and its relationship with additional initiatives, including second pillar operations (under the responsibility of the Council) during the desk phase of the evaluation.

The point of departure for the thematic scope of the evaluation has been interpreted and agreed as being Commission support to Conflict prevention (including crisis resolution) and peace building (including demobilisation, disarmament and reintegration) as defined by the Communication from the Commission on Conflict Prevention COM (2001) 211 and related subsequent documents. The evaluation will cover only activities for which the Commission has the full responsibility, namely those covered under the first pillar but also addresses coordination and coherence issues with activities and policies under other pillars.

3. SCOPE

3.1. Temporal and legal scope

The evaluation shall cover aid implementation over the period 2001-2008. It is reiterated that the point of departure for the evaluation has been interpreted and agreed as being Commission support to Conflict prevention as defined by the Communication from the Commission on Conflict Prevention COM (2001) 211 and related subsequent documents. The evaluation will cover only activities for which the Commission has the full responsibility, namely those covered under the first pillar but also coordination and coherence issues with activities and policies under other pillars.

The purpose of the evaluation is to assess to what extent the Commission assistance has been relevant, efficient, effective and sustainable in providing the expected impacts in Conflict Prevention and Peace building.

It should also assess the coordination and complementarity with other donors and actors, the coherence with the relevant EC policies and the partner Governments' priorities and activities as well as with relevant international legal commitments, such as the Ottawa (landmine) Convention or the UN Programme of Action on SALW, both areas where the EU and the Member States have made specific commitments, or in line with policy initiatives which assume further action, such as the Commission Communications on SSR and DDR.

The evaluation will also assess the EC added value.

The evaluation should come to a overall judgement of the extent to which Commission policies, strategies, sectoral programmes and individual projects have contributed to the achievement of the objectives and intended impacts. The judgment will be based on the answers to the agreed evaluation questions.

The evaluation should cover activities that fall within the relevant subsectors, financed from thematic and geographical budget lines/instruments, the EDF and other financial instruments.

The evaluation shall lead to conclusions based on objective, credible, reliable and valid findings and provide the EC with a set of operational and useful recommendations.

The evaluation shall be forward looking and take into account the most recent policy and programming decisions, providing lessons and recommendations for the continued support to Conflict Prevention and Peace Building within the present context and relevant political commitments (such as the European consensus and the Paris Declaration<sup>7</sup>), as well as taking into account the current processes within the Commission.

All regions where EC co-operation is implemented<sup>8</sup> (with the exception of regions and countries under the mandate of DG Enlargement) are included in the scope of this evaluation.

The evaluation will include a comprehensive desk phase involving a mapping exercise designed to produce a comprehensive account of all activities undertaken followed by country case studies to be carried out in 8 different and representative countries. The evaluators shall identify and formulate in-depth questions and test hypotheses for country case studies, allowing addressing the issues of relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, effects and sustainability of aid delivery. The case studies shall be selected<sup>9</sup> in consultation with the Reference group, taking into account different experiences in the area of support to the policy as well as different country/regional contexts.

3.2 The evaluation users

The evaluation should serve policy decision-making and project management purposes. DGs DEV, Relex, EuropeAid and the EC Delegations in the countries covered by this exercise will be the main users of the evaluation.

Other EC services such as DG ECHO and DG Enlargement may also benefit from the results of this evaluation.

The evaluation should also generate results of interest to a broader audience, including governments of partner countries, Member States, civil society and others.

<sup>9</sup> Possible criteria for country selection: (1) Importance of Commission support in the country; (2) Covering all major regions; (3) Broader learning potentials; (4) Level of poverty; (5) The political and economic context; (6) level of stability; (7) Previous country involvement in thematic, sectoral and regional evaluations; (8) Regional programmes; (9) Linking relief, rehabilitation and development.

4. THE ASSIGNMENT: EVALUATION QUESTIONS

4.1 Introduction to evaluation questions

Some specific points of interest, leading to evaluation questions have been noted below and other points of interest will be possibly contributed by the reference group. The precise EQ will be proposed by the evaluation team. When validated by the RG, the evaluation team is expected fully to address each Evaluation question as far as possible. These questions serve firstly as a way of articulating the key requirements of the evaluation, secondly to articulate the key strategic issues, and thirdly as a means of ensuring that the relevant objectives, obligations and activities in the domain of Conflict Prevention and Peace Building are covered.

The following questions and points reflect the Commission's principal fields of interest at the time of commissioning the evaluation. The evaluation team is expected to further develop the questions following on the assessment of the specific objectives.

- (1) To what extent has Conflict Prevention and Peace Building been analysed and how has the approach to Conflict Prevention and Peace Building evolved during this period?
  - This question should assess whether agreed definitions and appropriate potential conflict indicators have been elaborated and communicated within the Commission and how the approach to Conflict Prevention and Peace Building has evolved.
- (2) To what extent has Conflict Prevention and Peace Building been incorporated in European Commission cooperation with third countries since 2001?
  - This question is a follow up to the EC commitments to support Conflict Prevention and Peace Building in third countries, and in particular the Communication dated 2001 (quote: "An assessment of potential conflict situations will be made in all Country Strategy Papers") and the European Consensus 2005. It refers to the extent and how Conflict Prevention has been mainstreamed into CSPs/NIPs, RSPs/ RIPs, and how it has been treated in the mid-term review process.
  - The question covers the trends in financial volumes and number of projects/programmes targeting Conflict Prevention and Peace Building objectives as well as non spending activities, notably political dialogue.

To what extent and how European Commission strategies, programmes and projects, provided an appropriate development response in (post-) conflict situations/fragile states/'difficult partnerships? To what extent and how European Commission strategies, programmes and projects reached the root causes of conflict?

- The question covers the implementation side of the Commission's interventions. The question covers channels of aid (CSO, UN family, others) as well as the link between relief / peace making and peace building.

To what extent are the European Commission management systems (in terms of programming modalities; funding modalities and procedures; monitoring mechanisms) adapted to conflict prevention and peace building efforts?

To what extent and how have European Commission strategies, programmes and projects, contributed to achieving key EC /EU development objectives, as well as the capacity to react quickly to nascent conflicts.

To what extent and how has EC support to conflict prevention and peacebuilding been coherent with stated political objectives and other agreed EU Policies.

To what extent has the link between trade, including the use of incentives and autonomous preferences, and Conflict Prevention and Peace Building been analysed and how has the approach been integrated into programming; implementation and political dialogue? How can success be assessed?

Concerning the key cross-cutting issues gender<sup>10</sup>, human rights, HIV/AIDS, and institutional capacity building are seen as particularly important.

The link with humanitarian relief (under the responsibility of DG ECHO and not covered by this evaluation) and possible actions under the peace making operations is an important issue. The coherence with these actions is to be analysed.

5. KEY DELIVERABLES

The overall methodological guidance to be used is available on the web page of the EuropeAid evaluation unit under the following address:

http://ec.europa.eu/europeaid/how/evaluation/methodology/index\_en.htm

Within 14 days after receipt of the ToR, the Consultants will present a launch note which should contain:

- their understanding of the ToR;
- a methodological note including the implementation of the quality control;
- the provisional composition of the evaluation team with CVs<sup>11</sup>;
- a proposed budget<sup>12</sup>.

Following the launch note, the main key deliverables are:

- The inception meeting;
- The inception report;
- The desk report;
- The final reports;
- The dissemination seminar in Brussels.

<sup>10</sup> UN Security Council Resolution 1325 of 2000 applies; see also annex 4 of the terms of reference

5.1. The inception meeting

Upon approval of the launch note by the Evaluation Unit, the Consultant proceeds to the structuring stage leading to the production of an inception report.

The main part of the work consists in the analysis of all key relevant documents regarding the Commission's co-operation (past and present) within the domain given : conflict prevention (including crisis resolution) and peace building (including demobilisation, disarmament and reintegration) . The Consultants will also take into account the documentation produced by other donors and international agencies.

On the basis of the information collected and analysed, the Consultants will propose evaluation questions and prepare explanatory comments for each. The choice of the questions determines the subsequent phases of information and data collection, elaboration of the methods of analysis, and elaboration of final judgements. The consultants will also identify appropriate judgement criteria.

A meeting will be held with the reference group to discuss and validate:

- The evaluation's regulatory framework, its context, main users and expected uses;
- The evaluation's central scope;
- The scope extended to related policies;
- The intervention logic according to official documents;
- The evaluation questions;
- Explanatory comments associated to each evaluation questions (when possible, indicate judgement criteria).

Upon validation by the Reference Group, the evaluation questions become part of the ToR.

5.2. Inception report

At the end of the inception phase, the consultants must deliver an inception report, which finalises the evaluation questions and describes the main lines of the methodological design including the indicators to be used, the strategy of analysis and a detailed work plan for the next stage.

The inception report contains the following elements:

- the intervention logic;
- the validated evaluation questions;
- a limited number of appropriate judgment criteria per evaluation question;
- a limited number of quantitative and/or qualitative indicators related to each judgment criterion;
- a proposal containing suitable working methods to collect data and information in the Commission's headquarters and delegations, including information coming from the country itself and other donors in the country;
- a first outline of the strategy and the methods used to analyse the collected data and information indicating any limitations;
- a chain of reasoning for answering the question;
- a concise description of the development co-operation context of the Commission related to the evaluation questions;
- A detailed work plan for the next stage.

The report will also confirm if necessary:

- the final composition of the evaluation team and
- The final work plan and schedule.

The two latter points will be agreed and confirmed through a formal exchange of letters between the Consultants and the Commission.

This phase may include a short preparatory and exploratory visit of the Consultants to the field.

5.3. Desk report

Upon approval of the inception report the Consultants proceed to the final stage of the desk phase. At the end of this phase, the Consultants will present a desk report setting out the results of this phase of the evaluation including all the following listed elements (the major part of the inception report will be in the annex of the desk phase report):

- the evaluation questions with the agreed judgment criteria and its quantitative and qualitative indicators;
- the first elements of answer to the evaluation questions when available and the hypotheses to be tested in the field;
- Progress in the gathering of data. The complementary data needed for the analysis and to be collected in the field have to be identified;

- methodological design, including evaluation tools ready to be applied in the field phase: (i) suitable methods of data collection within the country indicating any limitations, describing how the data should be cross-checked and specifying the sources, (ii) appropriate methods for data collection and to analyse the information, again indicating any limitations of those methods;
- an exhaustive list of all the activities covered during the period and an exhaustive list of all activities examined during the desk phase, bearing in mind that activities analysed in the desk phase and the field phase (including ROM) have to be representative;
- A work plan for the field phase: a list with brief descriptions of activities, projects and programmes for in-depth analysis in the field. The consultants must explain the value added of the visits.

The field missions cannot start before the evaluation manager has approved the desk report.

5.4. Field reporting

The fieldwork shall be undertaken on the basis set out in the desk report and approved by the reference group (which then includes also the concerned Delegations). The work plan and schedule of the mission are agreed in advance with the Delegation concerned. If during the course of the fieldwork it appears necessary to deviate from the agreed approach and/or schedule, the Consultants must ask the approval of the Evaluation Unit before any changes may be applied. At the conclusion of the field study the Consultants present the preliminary findings of the evaluation:

- (1) Presentation during a de-briefing meeting with each Delegation;
- (2) Presentation to the reference group shortly after their return from the field.

5.5. Final reports and seminar in the country

4.5.1. The Draft Final Report

The Consultants will submit the draft final report in conformity with the structure set out in annex 2. Comments received during de-briefing meetings with the Delegation and the reference group must be taken into consideration.

The Consultants may either accept or reject the comments but in case of rejection they must justify (in writing) the reasons for rejection (the comments and the Consultants' responses are annexed to the report). If the Consultants don't want to take them in the report, they must explain in a separate document the reasons why.

If the evaluation manager considers the report to be of sufficient quality (cf. annex 3), he/she will circulate it for comments to the reference group. The reference group will convene to discuss it in the presence of the evaluation team.

4.5.2. The Final Report

The Consultants will prepare the final report based on the comments expressed at the meeting of the reference group and on the basis of possible further comments from the reference group, the Delegation and/or the evaluation manager. The presentation (Power point) will be revised in accordance to the final report. The final report will be in English, the executive summary (5 pages) will be translated into French and Spanish.

110 copies of the Final Main Report (including the executive summary in the three linguistic versions) must be sent to the Evaluation Unit with an additional 10 reports with all printed annexes. A CD-Rom with the Final Main Report and annexes has to be added to each printed report.

The evaluators have to hand over on an appropriate support (electronic or paper) all relevant data gathered during the evaluation.

The contractor shall submit a methodological note explaining how the quality control and the capitalisation of lessons learned have been addressed.

The Evaluation Unit makes a formal judgement on the quality of the evaluation (cf. annex 3).

4.5.3. The Seminar

The final report will be presented at a seminar in Brussels. The purpose of the seminar is to present the results, the conclusions and the recommendations of the evaluation to all main stakeholders concerned (EC services, Member States, Members of the European Parliament, representatives of the partner countries and civil society organisations and other donors).

The Consultants shall prepare a presentation (Power point) for the seminar. This presentation shall be considered as a product of the evaluation in the same way as the reports and the data basis. For the seminar 60 copies of the report (including the executive summary in the three linguistic versions) and 10 reports with full printed annexes (see annex 2 of the ToR) have to be produced.

The Evaluation Unit makes a formal judgement on the quality of the evaluation (cf. annex 3).

6. EVALUATION QUESTIONS

The evaluation will be based on the seven evaluation criteria: relevance, impact, effectiveness, efficiency, sustainability, coherence and the EC value added. The first five correspond to the traditional practice of evaluation of development aid and have been formalised by the OECD (DAC). The following two apply to all EC policies. The criteria will be given different weightings based on the priority accorded to the evaluation questions.

In general, questions (to a maximum of 10) will refer to the following main areas:

- Relevance of the strategy/programme: this includes both relevance to the general objectives of the EC and relevance to commitments on an international level the EC has itself committed to.
- Design and consistency<sup>13</sup> of the intervention strategy/programme: this mainly concerns the extent to which the resources foreseen were adequate in relation to the objectives set out in the programming documents.

<sup>13</sup>. The notion of consistency should be understood here as follows: (i) correspondence between the different objectives of a strategy, implying that there is a hierarchy of objectives (with lower level objectives logically contributing to the higher level ones); (ii) extent to which the resources foreseen are adequate in relation to the objectives set out in the strategy

- Consistency of the implementation in relation to the strategy: the Consultants shall verify the extent to which the work plan, schedule and implementation of the activities (all types of interventions, geographical and sectoral distribution, instruments, and aid delivery channels included) were consistent with the strategy. They shall demonstrate who were the real beneficiaries, direct or indirect, of the intervention and compare them to the target population(s) in the programming documents.

The Consultants will also verify the extent to which the intervention modalities (instruments, aid delivery channels, etc.) were appropriate to the objectives.

- Achievement of main impacts/effects: the Consultants shall identify all recorded results and impacts, including any unintended ones, and compare these to the intended results and/or impacts. The Consultants will also identify the changes, which occurred in the areas in which EC programmes were supposed to produce an impact.
- Efficiency of the implementation: for the activities which were effective, it will be necessary to question to what extent funding, human resources, regulatory and/or administrative resources contributed to, or hindered the achievement of the objectives and results.
- Sustainability of the effects: an analysis of the extent to which the results and impacts are being, or are likely to be maintained over time.
- Key cross-cutting issues: for example gender, environment and climate change, human rights, HIV/AIDS, institutional capacity building, etc. Verification should be undertaken, on the one hand, of the extent to which account has been taken of these priorities in the programming documents and, on the other hand, to what extent these issues have been reflected in the implementation modalities and in the effects of the intervention. The 3Cs (co-ordination, complementarity and coherence): co-ordination / complementarity with EU Member States and other donors; coherence with EU policies (including the Member States' own policies and eventual interventions of the EIB).

Value added of the EC interventions: The criterion is closely related to the principle of subsidiarity and relates to the extra-benefit the activity/operation generates due to the fact that it was financed/implemented through the EC.

There may be three practical elements to illustrate possible aspects of the criterion:

- 1) The EC has a particular capacity for example experience in regional integration, above those of the Member States;
- 2) The EC has a particular mandate in the framework of the '3Cs' and can draw member states to a greater effort together;
- 3) EC cooperation is guided by a common political agenda embracing all Member States.

7. RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE MANAGEMENT AND THE MONITORING OF THE EVALUATION

The Evaluation Unit (AIDCO 03) is responsible for the management and monitoring of the evaluation with the assistance of the reference group.

Information will be given to the Consultants after the signature of the contract concerning the documents referred in Annex 1.

8. THE EVALUATION TEAM

The evaluation team should possess a sound knowledge and experience in:

- evaluation methods and techniques in general and, if possible, of evaluation in the field of development cooperation;
- in all fields pertaining to the topic of the evaluation : conflict prevention (including crisis resolution) and peace building (including demobilisation, disarmament and reintegration. Ancillary fields are (list not exhaustive): Security sector reform (SSR), demilitarisation, demobilisation and reintegration (DDR); anti-personnel mines (APL) and small arms and light weapons (SALW).
- Particular institutional structure and relationship of responsibilities between the European Commission and the European Council.
- The following language(s): the main language of the work and the report will be English, but for the country case studies other working languages may be necessary.

The Evaluation Unit strongly recommends that the evaluation team should include consultants from the country or the region (notably, but not only, during the field phase) with in-depth knowledge of key areas of the evaluation.

Consultants must be strictly neutral. Conflicts of interests must be avoided.

It is highly recommended at least for the team leader to be fully familiar with the methodological approach set by the EC.

9. TIMING

After the approval of the launch note and the signature of the contract, the timing of activities will be set according to the following indicative work plan.

The dates mentioned in the following section may be changed with the agreement of all concerned.

Evaluation Phases and Stages	Notes and Reports	Dates	Meetings/Communications
Desk Phase
Structuring Stage	Short presentation (logical diagram and EQ)	R	RG Meeting
	Draft Inception Report		Optional: Short preparatory visit of the consultants to the field.
	Final Inception Report		A formal exchange of letters between the Consultants and the Commission confirms the final composition of the evaluation team and the final work plan and schedule.
Desk Study	Draft Desk Report		RG Meeting
	Final Desk Report
Field Phase			De-briefing meeting with the Delegation.
Presentation			RG Meeting
Synthesis phase (seminar in Brussels)
	1st draft Final report		RG Meeting
	Final Main Report		110 copies of the Final Main Report must be sent to the Evaluation Unit. Additional 10 reports with all printed annexes must be sent to the Evaluation Unit as well.
			Seminar in Brussels 60 copies of the report and 10 reports with full printed annexes.

10. COST OF THE EVALUATION

The overall costs include:

- The evaluation as such;
- 2.5% of the total budget excluding the costs of the seminar are to be used for quality control;
- A seminar in the country.

The total of these 3 elements must not exceed .....

NB: The budget for the seminar (fees, per diems and travel) will be presented separately in the launch note.

10. PAYMENTS MODALITIES

The payments modalities shall be as follows:

- 30% on acceptance of the Inception Report, plus 2.5% of the agreed budget to be used for quality control;
- 50% on acceptance of the Draft Final Report;
- The balance on acceptance of the final report.

Seminar related costs are to be invoiced and paid separately.

2- Methodological note from Eureval concerning North-South approach to country level evaluations;

3- Template for Cover page.

4- internal note for the file on EC value-added

In addition, the consultant will have to consult the documentation available on Internet (DAC/OCDE and EU Inventory websites in particular) as well as the documentation listed or available within the Evaluation Unit (AIDCO/0/3 Library).

ANNEX 2: OVERALL STRUCTURE OF THE FINAL REPORT

The overall layout of the report is:

• Final report

- Summary
- Context of the evaluation
- Answers to the evaluation questions
- Conclusions (1)
- Recommendations (2)

Length: the final report must be kept short (70 pages maximum excluding annexes). Additional information regarding the context, the programme and the comprehensive aspects of the methodology and of the analysis will be put in the annexes .

(1) Conclusions

- The conclusions have to be assembled by homogeneous "clusters" (groups). It is not required to set out the conclusions according to the 5 DAC criteria;
- The chapter on "Conclusions" has to contain a paragraph or a sub-chapter with the 3 to 4 principal conclusions presented in order of importance;
- The chapter on "Conclusions" must also make it possible to identify subjects, for which there are good practices and the subjects, for which it is necessary to think about modifications or re-orientations ;

(2) Recommendations

- Recommendations have to be linked to the conclusions without being a direct copy of them;
- Recommendations have to be treated on a hierarchical basis and prioritised within the various clusters (groups) of presentation selected;
- Recommendations have to be realistic, operational and feasible. As far as it is practicable, the possible conditions of implementation have to be specified;

- The chapter on "Recommendations" has to contain a sub-chapter or a specific paragraph corresponding to the paragraph with the 3 to 4 principal conclusions. Therefore, for each conclusion, options for action and the conditions linked to each action as well as the likely consequences should be set out.

- Annexes (non exhaustive)

- National background country case

- Methodological approach
- Information matrix
- Monograph, case studies
- List of institutions and persons met
- List of documents consulted

NOTE ON THE EDITING OF REPORTS

- The final report must:
  - be consistent, concise and clear;
  - be well balanced between argumentation, tables and graphs;
  - be free of linguistic errors;
  - include a table of contents indicating the page number of all the chapters listed therein, a list of annexes (whose page numbering shall continue from that in the report) and a complete list in alphabetical order of any abbreviations in the text;
  - contain one (or several) summaries presenting the main ideas. For example, the answers to the evaluation questions and the main conclusions could be summarised and presented in a box.
- The executive summary has to be very short (max. 5 pages);
- The final version of the report shall be typed in 1,5 lines spacing and printed double sided, in DIN-A-4 format;
- The font shall be easy to read (indicative size of the font: Times New Roman 12);
- The presentation shall be well spaced (the use of graphs, tables and small paragraphs is strongly recommended). The graphs must be clear (shades of grey produce better contrasts on a black and white printout);
- The main report shall not exceed 70 pages including the cover page, the table of content, the lists of annexes and abbreviations. The annexes shall not be too long;
- The content must have a good balance between main report and annexes;
- Reports shall be glued or stapled; plastic spirals are not acceptable due to storage problems.

For the Cover page, please use the template mentioned in Annex 1.

Please, note that:

- The Consultant is responsible for the quality of translations and their conformity with the original;
- All data produced in the evaluation are property of the EC.

ANNEX 3 - QUALITY ASSESSMENT GRID

Concerning these criteria, the evaluation report is:	Unacceptable	Poor	Good	Very good	Excellent
1. Meeting needs: Does the evaluation adequately address the information needs of the commissioning body and fit the terms of reference?
2. Relevant scope: Is the rationale of the policy examined and its set of outputs, results and outcomes/impacts examined fully, including both intended and unexpected policy interactions and consequences?
3. Defensible design: Is the evaluation design appropriate and adequate to ensure that the full set of findings, along with methodological limitations, is made accessible for answering the main evaluation questions?
4. Reliable data: To what extent are the primary and secondary data selected adequate. Are they sufficiently reliable for their intended use?
5. Sound analysis: Is quantitative information appropriately and systematically analysed according to the state of the art so that evaluation questions are answered in a valid way?
6. Credible findings: Do findings follow logically from, and are they justified by, the data analysis and interpretations based on carefully described assumptions and rationale?
7. Validity of the conclusions: Does the report provide clear conclusions? Are conclusions based on credible results?
8. Usefulness of the recommendations: Are recommendations fair, unbiased by personnel or shareholders' views, and sufficiently detailed to be operationally applicable?
9. Clearly reported: Does the report clearly describe the policy being evaluated, including its context and purpose, together with the procedures and findings of the evaluation, so that information provided can easily be understood?
Taking into account the contextual constraints on the evaluation, the overall quality rating of the report is considered.

Annex 4

Gender and conflict prevention

UNSCR 1325 reaffirms the important role of women in the prevention and resolution of conflicts, peace negotiations, peace-building, peacekeeping, humanitarian response and in post-conflict reconstruction and stresses the importance of their equal participation and full involvement in all efforts for the maintenance and promotion of peace and security. The Resolution urges all actors to increase the participation of women and incorporate gender perspectives in all United Nations peace and security efforts. It also calls on all parties to conflict to take special measures to protect women and girls from gender-based violence, particularly rape and other forms of sexual abuse, in situations of armed conflict.

UNSCR 1325 underlines that women are not only victims in violent conflict but also actors: perpetrators and peace makers. Indeed, in many conflicts, such as Sri Lanka, Nepal and Colombia large proportions of the armed groups consist of women. Women ex-combatants have special needs when being demobilised and reintegrated into society.

Women tend to be engaged at the grass roots level in promoting peace. However, they also need to be represented and heard at the track one level in peace processes and official peace negotiations (e.g. Nepal where the parties have yet to live up to commitments made in the formal peace agreement). Several studies show that their engagement at that level is highly insufficient.

In dealing with gender issues in relation to violent conflict and their aftermath it is important to look at the situation and the opportunities for both women and men, as they are affected by violence and armed conflict in different ways, including as victims, perpetrators and peace makers. The chances to achieve sustainable peace are improved if both women and men participate in equal terms in the peace process.

Other aspects are directly linked to Peace Support Operations and international missions that have many times generated prostitution and human trafficking in the areas where they are deployed. Code of Conducts and gender focused training for staff to be deployed can help improve their behaviour in the field.

6 March 2008 a conference "Women: Stabilising an Insecure World", was organized.

It is planned to develop a Commission/Council Secretariat Strategic Framework on the EU's response to the implementation of UN Security Council resolution 1325 on women, peace and security);

1. Introduction

The present Launch Note contains the proposal for conducting Phase 1 (or “preliminary study”) of the “Thematic Evaluation of the European Commission support to conflict prevention and peace building”, which is part of the 2008 evaluation programme approved by the External Relations and Development Commissioners.

Draft Terms of Reference (TORs) have been produced for this evaluation, but the Joint Evaluation Unit decided, in agreement with the Reference Group (RG), to commission first a preliminary study to produce two outputs:

- a scoping of the subject area; and
- a mapping of all EC financial flows.

Accordingly, this Launch Note contains the contractor’s technical and financial proposal for the conduct of this preliminary study in response to the one-page TORs drafted by the Joint Evaluation Unit for the above-mentioned Phase 1. It is structured as follows:

- understanding of the Terms of Reference (Section 2)
- general approach to the preliminary study, provisional work plan and quality control (Section 3)
- composition of the proposed team (Section 4)
- budget (Section 5).

Annex 1 presents the detailed CVs and associated statements of absence of conflict of interest for the proposed evaluation team. The TORs for the preliminary study as well as the accompanying draft TORs for the next phases are included as annex 2.

Once this preliminary study is finalised, its outputs and results will be integrated into the draft Terms of Reference (TORs) for the next phases, which will be modified accordingly. A specific launch note for these next phases will then be delivered in response to these new TORs.

2. Understanding of the Terms of Reference

2.1 The objectives of the preliminary study

The team understands that the preliminary study shall pursue two main objectives:

- provision of an overview and typology of the EC financial flows in terms of conflict prevention and peace building on the basis of the working definition contained in the draft TORs ;
- provision of a proposal for the scope of the subject area for the next phases of the evaluation.

2.2 The scope of the preliminary study

One should distinguish between the scope of the preliminary study and the scope of the next phases. As explained above the latter will be defined by the Joint Evaluation Unit in agreement with the Reference Group on the basis of the outputs and results of the present preliminary study.

The scope of the present preliminary study can be summarised as follows:

- thematic scope, based on that proposed in the draft ToRs for the subsequent phases (see notably section 2.2), on which basis the study will relate to Commission support to conflict prevention (including crisis resolution) and peace building (including demobilisation, disarmament and reintegration) as defined by the Communication from the Commission on Conflict Prevention COM (2001) 211 and related subsequent documents; the purpose is to cover only activities for which the Commission has full responsibility, namely those covered under the first pillar, while also addressing coordination and coherence issues with activities and policies under other pillars;
- temporal scope, covering the period 2001-2008.

2.3 Expected outputs of the preliminary study

The preliminary study will be presented as a report focusing on two elements, in line with the objectives of the study:

- first, an inventory and typology (in terms of source, activity/function/role, channel, sector, geographic sub-area/country) of all EC financial flows in the domain covered by the evaluation, with interventions listed as far as possible; this part will also contain a description of the regulatory framework, its context, main users and expected use, as well as a reconstruction of the intervention logic based on the content of official documents;

- second and on the foregoing basis, a scoping exercise which will enable the Joint Evaluation Unit and Reference Group to decide on the scope of the next phases, embodying proposals with respect to :
  - the evaluation's central scope;
  - the scope in respect of related policies.

2.4 Challenges of the preliminary study

Two main challenges of this preliminary study should be highlighted, with respect to:

1. Its scope: one of the main reasons why the Joint Evaluation Unit and the Reference Group decided to launch a preliminary study prior to the next phases is the fact that the scope to be covered is potentially very wide, and its boundaries not always clearly defined. Accordingly one of the main challenges of this preliminary study will be to address this problem while providing the tools required to allow clear delineation of the scope for the evaluation as such.

It will therefore be essential that the team can count on the assistance of RG members and other stakeholders (notably through interviews, communication of useful documents and names of contact persons, etc.) to this end.

2. Access to data: the bulk of the work for this preliminary study will consist of providing an inventory and typology of interventions. The Commission databases will be the main sources used to this end. Our experience with previous evaluations shows that providing an inventory and typology on the basis of these sources is highly challenging insofar as the existing databases (ABAC, OLAS and CRIS) are not well suited for such exercises. For example it is very difficult to work with the CRIS database (always the main source) because of its inherent limits (e.g. it does not completely integrate EDF interventions, extractions in Excel are not reliable, and there is a lack of flexibility in extraction of information) and encoding-related limitations (e.g. only one sector code is attributed to each intervention, data are often incomplete). As a result, providing an inventory is a matter not of gathering readily-available information, but rather of reconstructing information in an iterative process and in close collaboration with Commission representatives. Moreover, teams are often confronted with difficulties in terms of access to the database (notably in terms of delays in obtaining login and passwords and the fact that access is restricted to specific days).

As a consequence it will be important for the team:

- to have sufficient time and resources to conduct this exercise; this has already been discussed with the Joint Evaluation Unit and explains the duration envisaged for this preliminary study ;
- to be able to rely on Commission representatives for access to data and for checking it; in this respect extraction of data by the RELEX Services themselves, in response to a specific request from the evaluators, will be key;

- to have expectations in line with what can be reasonably extracted from EC databases; for example the ToRs mention that both commitments and disbursements should be provided, but the fact remains that this is not always possible. The expected final output will be an inventory and typology which provides an idea of the magnitude of funding without, however, any guarantee of the degree of consistency or comprehensiveness (but providing a good basis for the evaluation exercise nonetheless).

3. Approach and provisional work plan

3.1 Overall Approach

The preliminary study will be conducted in three stages, as shown in the work-plan in section 3.2 (Figure 1). The first stage will be dedicated to providing a first inventory and typology as well as a first description of the regulatory framework and of the intervention logic. After discussion with the RG, the team will fine-tune where necessary these different elements into a second stage which will also contain proposals regarding both scope and possible amendments to the ToRs for the next phases, all to be included in the report of the preliminary study. After discussing this report with the RG, final amendments will be made where necessary to this report. Each of these stages is briefly described below.

Stage 1

The first stage will start with a kick-off meeting with the Reference Group (RG) with a view to presenting the team and the proposed approach to the preliminary study, and to agreeing on modes of collaboration with RG members and possible other stakeholders (e.g. in terms of data and document collection, interviews to be conducted). With a view to organising retrieval of data from databases, the team will then conduct a series of interviews related to the databases (maximum of six sessions). These will involve representatives in charge of data related to, for instance, the OLAS database, but also to the Rapid Reaction Mechanism, the Instrument for Stability, and others. On that basis the team will start retrieving information from the databases. Experience shows that this process is often iterative. Once sets of rough data have been collected, the team will proceed with organising and analysing data (including for instance harmonising datasets by excluding double encoding) and, subsequently, compiling inventory tables and constructing a typology. In parallel, the team will proceed to describing the regulatory framework for which interviews with key stakeholders will also be conducted (notably the different RG members, up to a maximum of nine sessions). A first draft of the intervention logic will also be provided at this stage, based only on strategic documents. These different elements will be tested and fine-tuned jointly by all the team experts in an internal expert meeting. As most of the work will be conducted in this first stage, a period of 4 months is envisaged for it (taking into account end-of-year holidays).

Stage 2

Stage 2 will start with an intermediate RG meeting with a view to presenting and testing the different elements compiled in stage 1 and gathered in a powerpoint presentation. This might give rise to a need for additional data collection and analysis, including additional interviews, following which the team will proceed to finalising the inventory, typology and intervention logic. On the basis of the work carried out the team will then make concrete proposals for defining the scope of the subsequent phases, as well as suggestions for possible amendments to the ToRs for those phases. The team will also investigate to what extent evaluating conflict prevention and peace-building might pose specific challenges in terms of evaluation methodology with a view to ensuring that any such challenges are taken into account in the next stages of the evaluation (for instance in terms of risks related to the specific conflict context, the rapid changing environment, etc.). These different elements will be included in the draft preliminary study.

Stage 3

The third and last RG meeting will be dedicated to presentation of the draft report on the preliminary study. After having received comments from the RG, the team will amend this draft and submit the final report of the preliminary study.

3.2 Provisional work-plan

Figure 1 below summarises the calendar for the preliminary study. It should be noted that this work-plan aims at taking into account possible delays in access to data. If access to data proves easier than foreseen, it will be possible to speed up the process, with the agreement of the Joint Evaluation Unit and the RG.

3.3 Quality control of the preliminary study

There will be three key elements in quality control. First there is the team in charge of the evaluation, which has been selected with a view to ensuring that the final deliverable and the entire process meet quality standards. The proposed team is presented in Section 4. The team leader will have a crucial role in quality monitoring and will be responsible for applying the appropriate methodology; for distributing work within the team; for interacting with the Joint Evaluation Unit, the Reference Group and key stakeholders for all deliverables; and for ensuring that deadlines are respected.

Although quality is in the first instance the responsibility of the team and the team leader, a quality control system external to the team is also planned. This will be undertaken by a peer reviewer who is not part of the team and has been chosen on the basis of his thorough knowledge of evaluation methodologies and his experience with previous complex evaluations (see also Section 4). This peer reviewer will:

- review the deliverables (draft and final report) prior to their submission to the Joint Evaluation Unit and provide feedback to the team leader, ensuring that the deliverables are amended where necessary; that each deliverable contains the information required, and that other aspects such as readability, user-friendliness and so on are to an adequate standard;
- be accessible throughout the process, especially to ensure that the process proceeds as planned and that experience from previous evaluations is correctly integrated into the preliminary study;
- thereby ensure that the study is conducted under optimal conditions and that the required level of quality is maintained. Should major quality problems occur it will be the peer reviewer's duty to inform the company responsible and the Consortium leader (in this case ADE and Particip respectively), so that corrective action can be undertaken (for instance replacement of a team member).

The company in charge of the evaluation (ADE) and the leader of the consortium (Particip for EGEVAL II) will also play an important role in quality control, first in the sense that they will ensure that the quality system is operational, and second as they will, as mentioned above, intervene and take corrective action should disagreements occur between the Team Leader and Quality Controller or if major quality problems arise.

Finally, each deliverable will be subject to professional English proof-reading. The persons in charge of English proof-reading have experience both in evaluation and in European Commission wording and procedures.

4. The Evaluation Team

ADE proposes a core team to work throughout the entire duration of the preliminary study. This team may be extended for the subsequent evaluation stages.

The team proposed has been selected taking into consideration the ToR requirements. The experts are experienced professionals with an extensive knowledge of European external policies. Besides their outstanding individual skills, the team has been built up into a coherent multi-skilled group whose combined expertise is complementary and permits coverage of the diverse aspects of this evaluation. The combined knowledge of the team encompasses (i) complex evaluation methodologies, including specific experience with the methodology favoured by the Joint Evaluation Unit, and (ii) the theoretical concepts of conflict prevention and field experience in conflict or post-conflict countries. In addition the team's sectoral expertise covers areas on which the ToRs specifically recommend a focus, namely:

- conflict prevention, including crisis resolution,
- peace building, including demobilisation, disarmament and reintegration.

The proposed Core Team is presented in the following synthesis table. The full CVs of the experts are included in Annex 1.

Table 1 – The Evaluation team

Name	Position	CV summary
Edwin Clerckx	Team leader	Dr Edwin Clerckx is a Director of ADE and manager responsible for its Evaluation Area. He holds a Ph.D. in philosophy and a complementary degree in economics. Since joining the company in 2001, he has worked nearly exclusively on evaluations – as expert and as team leader – in the fields of development cooperation, rural development and agriculture, and structural funds. With respect to development cooperation he has participated in several sector/thematic evaluations. He is currently Team Leader of the Evaluation of EC aid delivery through Development Banks and the EIB, but has also worked on other sector evaluations (micro-projects, private sector development and transport). He has also participated in country evaluations such as the joint evaluation of the cooperation of the European Commission and France with Mali and, more recently, the Guyana country evaluation in which he intervened as methodological advisor. Examples of projects in the fields of rural development or structural funds are the ex post evaluation (at EU level) of the Objective 5b programmes 1994-1999 or his participation as team leader in the evaluation at European level of the information and promotion programmes for agricultural products of the organic sector on the internal market. Throughout these projects he has gained a sound knowledge and a solid experience in the field of evaluation, complemented by different training courses, conferences and seminars on the subject. This

		knowledge has also been valorised and developed through work on evaluation methodologies, notably by participation in the development of Evaluation Guidelines for the Joint Evaluation Unit located in the EuropeAid Co-operation Office.
Eleanor O’Gorman	Senior expert	With a PhD in international politics, Eleanor O’Gorman has over fifteen years of progressively senior experience in the field of international conflict and development policies and strategies, peacebuilding and post-conflict programming, complex peace operations, and conflict analysis methodologies. Her practical experience includes UN, EU, the UK Government, the Irish Government, OECD/DAC, NGOs and academic institutions. Field experience includes Sri Lanka, Israel/Palestine, Zimbabwe, Liberia, Somalia, Guinea-Bissau, Timor Leste, Tajikistan and Kyrgyzstan, and Bosnia-Herzegovina. During 2003-2006 she was Senior Policy Adviser at the UN Office in Brussels and advised on UN-EU cooperation strategies in the areas of crisis management and conflict prevention. From 2000-2006 she worked on conflict-related policies and programmes with UNDP including several field support missions to design and evaluate programmes. She is currently engaged with the Conflict Prevention Pool Secretariat of the UK Government to advise and support the monitoring and evaluation strategies and indicators for impact.
James Mackie	Senior expert	James Mackie has some 25 years experience in development cooperation, both in the field in Asia and Africa, and at EU level. For the purposes of this study he has particularly useful experience in three areas. First, he was the team leader of the Mid-Term Evaluation of the Africa Peace Facility which is referred to as a base document for the study. Second, he has had extensive experience over the past six years of working with the African Union and its institutions, partly on peace and security issues such as the APF. In the same area he is involved as an advisor in the consortium running the EDF9-funded project to support the development of the peace and security work of the ECCAS (CEEAC) regional organisation (PAPS-CEEAC: Programme d'Appui au Paix et Sécurité de la CEEAC). Finally he has been involved in a number of EC evaluations using the methodology of the EuropeAid Evaluation Unit both as a team leader and as a Category 1 expert, most recently on the CSO as a channel evaluation for the EC with Particip GmbH.
Andrew Scheriff	Senior expert	Andrew Sherriff is currently a Senior Programme Officer at the European Centre for Development Policy Management (ECDPM). He has 14 years of professional experience working on aid, conflict and development issues and is an acknowledged expert on the EU and conflict prevention. Most recently he has consulted on “The EU and Children Affected by Armed Conflict” and “EU, Women and Armed Conflict” for major policy initiatives during the Slovenian EU Presidency. From 1994 to 2004 he worked for the leading peacebuilding organisation International Alert, prior to that he was an academic research on aid and conflict at universities in Canada and Ireland including undertaking field research in conflict zones. He has consulted and/or undertaken evaluations on conflict

He has over 20 publications on conflict prevention themes (many with a specific EU focus) on Security Sector Reform (SSR), Small Arms and Light Weapons (SALW), conflict analysis, conflict sensitive approaches, strategic peacebuilding and EU conflict prevention capacity and policy. Recently he has undertaken conflict prevention assignments in Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Burundi, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Ethiopia, Georgia, Kenya, Kosovo, Macedonia, Rwanda, Serbia.
Vincent Coppens	Medium expert	Vincent Coppens is a permanent consultant in Evaluation at ADE. He holds a Masters degree in Science of Management from the Solvay Business School (Université Libre de Bruxelles), and followed a university exchange programme at the Universidad Complutense de Madrid. He is bilingual in French and Dutch and additionally speaks both English and Spanish very well. He actively participated in two complex conflict-prevention and peace-building evaluations for the Joint Evaluation Unit; in an evaluation of the European Commission's aid delivery through Development Banks and the EIB; and in an evaluation of the European Commission's external cooperation with partner countries through the organisations of the UN family. He also contributed to the evaluation of the European Commission's strategy for Rural Development and Agriculture. Besides these assignments for the Joint Evaluation Unit, he contributed for instance to the evaluation of the European Union co-financed Information and Promotion Programmes for Agricultural Products within the EU (Milk and Milk Products), and to the Evaluation of the Belgian Survival Fund for the Belgian Parliament. Before joining ADE he worked four years for A.T. Kearney, an international strategy and management consultancy. He realised projects for more than a dozen international clients in different countries. In addition, he has experience in development issues in third countries, including the realisation of development projects in the field, in particular in Guatemala and Ecuador.
Antoine Hanin	Junior expert	Antoine Hanin is a permanent consultant in Evaluation at ADE. He holds a B.Sc in Economics and a Masters degree in International Relations and Conflict Management. During his Masters degree he gained good knowledge of the theoretical concepts of conflict prevention. He has also analysed case studies/best practices of management and resolution of conflicts in African countries. He has worked on various evaluations for the EuropeAid Joint Evaluation Unit including two "channels" evaluations, i.e. the Commission's external cooperation with partner countries through the UN family; and the Commission's aid delivery through Development Banks and EIB. He has also participated in the evaluation of Commission support for statistics in third countries and in the evaluation of Commission support to Mali. Through these working experiences he has been able to develop fully his understanding and use of the EC

Virginie Morillon	Junior expert	information systems and databases for evaluation purposes. Virginie Morillon is a permanent consultant in Evaluation at ADE. She holds a B.A in Economics and a Masters Degree in Development Economics. She has actively participated in complex evaluations for the Joint Evaluation Unit in which she has acquired experience on evaluation methodologies and in post-conflict countries: her experience includes inter alia an evaluation of the Commission's support for the Mediterranean Partner Countries with a field mission in Lebanon, and an evaluation of the Commission's support for the rural development sector in partner countries. She gained further experience on country evaluations, e.g. an evaluation of the Commission's support to Guyana. Prior to joining ADE she worked for one year in Benin for the French Ministry for Foreign Affairs where she was seconded to a Beninese consultancy to carry out a study on the impact on the Beninese economy of illegal oil trade between Benin and Nigeria. She also carried out an internship at the Development Directorate-General of the European Commission where she was following the 9th EDF Mid-Term Review for Central African countries and the Demobilisation, Demilitarisation and Reintegration process in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.
Jean-Marie Wathelet	Quality control	Jean-Marie Wathelet is an agro-economic engineer. He has been a Director of ADE since its creation in 1990 and is Managing Director since 2007. He has carried out some 30 advisory and evaluation missions of which several pertained to rural development and support for SMEs. These assignments and studies were financed by various donors, mainly the European Commission and the World Bank. He has acquired a sound knowledge of the management tools of project cycles as well as the application of evaluation methods of the logical framework and participative approach types. He is a director and founding member of the SWEP (Wallonia Evaluation Bureau). He has recently conducted an evaluation of EC support to the rural development sector in partner countries. He also conducted mid-term evaluations of the RDPs in Wallonia and the Grand-Duchy of Luxembourg. In 2003 he was the team leader for the ex post evaluation (at EU level) of the Objective 5b programmes 1994-1999. He has further conducted evaluations of Objective 2, Objective 5b, Leader II and Interreg programmes and has been involved in numerous international evaluations and missions.

Dr Edwin Clerckx is an experienced team leader of complex evaluations. As team leader for the present preliminary study he will be responsible mainly for:

- the preliminary study process and the drafting of all deliverables;
- design of the methodological approach;
- conduct of interviews;
- coordination of the team and verification of each output; and
- representation of the team to the Reference Group.

The medium-level expert, Mr Vincent Coppens, has solid experience of complex evaluations commissioned by the Joint Evaluation Unit. He will assist the team throughout the entire preliminary study process and will participate in the drafting of all intermediary and final deliverables. He will be mainly involved in the following tasks:

- collection of data for the inventory;
- interviews related to databases and with key interlocutors;
- design of the methodological approach;
- collection of documents; and
- preparation of and participation in the RG meetings.

The junior experts Mr Antoine Hanin and Ms Virginie Morillon will assist the team throughout the entire preliminary study process in collecting information and also in maintaining an overall view of the entire preliminary study as well as in participation in the drafting of all intermediary and final deliverables. They will have a key role during the first part of the preliminary study. This will mainly involve the following tasks:

- retrieving information from the databases;
- participation to interviews related to databases;
- data processing;
- inventory and typology of the interventions;
- collection of documents; *and
- contribution to the preparation of and participation in the RG meetings.

The sector experts Ms Eleanor O’Gorman, Mr James Mackie and Mr Andrew Scheriff will strengthen the team by providing sector advice on particular areas of concentration in the preliminary study. Their main tasks will be:

- examination of strategic documents;
- design of the methodological approach; and
- participation in the drafting of the preliminary study and checking of deliverables.

One of the senior expert will also participate to the RG meetings.

All the experts of the core team will be involved throughout the whole process of the preliminary study. The evaluators are fully convinced of the added value accruing from working as a team as distinct from inputs from a collection of individuals, not only in terms of complementarity of skills and experience, but also in terms of creating a dynamic interchange of ideas. In that regard the evaluators have planned to hold an internal workshop with all evaluation core team members at a critical point in the study, following examination of strategic documents and reconstruction of the intervention logic but prior to finalisation of the preliminary study.

Annex 8 : Overview of EU instruments relevant to CPPB

The present annex aims at presenting a brief overview of the main EU instruments in the field relevant to CPPB over the evaluation period 2001-2008. Indeed, several EU instruments have not been explicitly designed for CPPB but were considered to be part of the effort while others are directly and clearly relevant in targeting CPPB. The range of instruments is presented along the lines of the Commission's 2003 document "Civilian instruments for EU crisis management"<sup>1</sup>, complemented with recent developments. It also covers the geographical scope of the preliminary study and therefore excludes instruments used in the Western Balkans. Three main types of instruments should be differentiated:

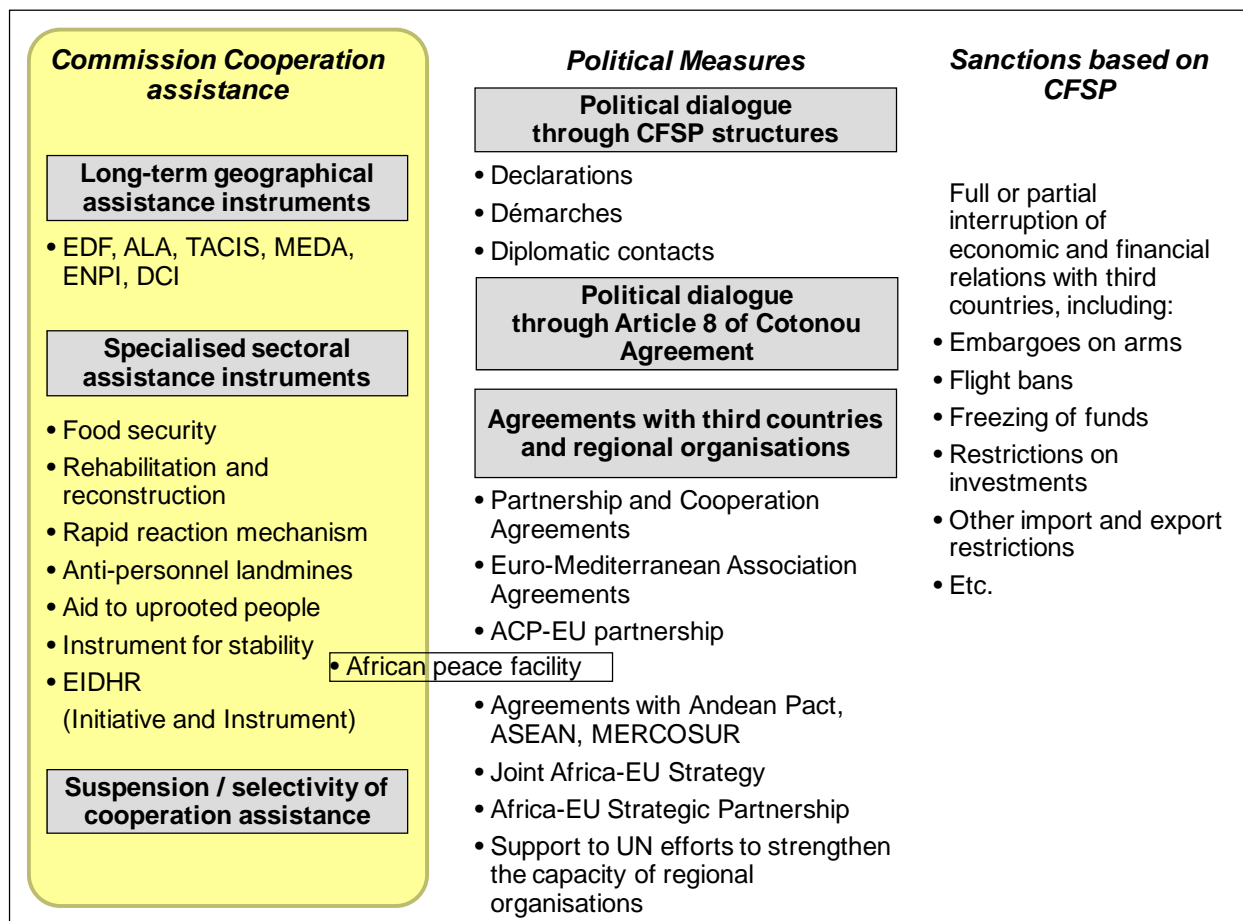

- Commission cooperation assistance;
- political measures; and
- sanctions based on CFSP.

Based on this structure, the figure below presents a schematic overview of the instruments the EU has at its disposal in the field of CPPB. A more detailed description of those instruments is provided thereafter.

1. Commission cooperation assistance

As stated in the 2001 Communication on CP, development policy and cooperation programmes provide the Community with a powerful instrument for addressing the root causes of conflict. Indeed, the Commission has at its disposal long-term geographical assistance instruments and specialised sectoral instruments, and can select or threaten to suppress its cooperation.

1.1 Long-term geographical assistance instruments

Long-term Commission development and co-operation assistance programmes can be used to address the causes of conflict, support its resolution and re-start the process of economic and social development. These instruments should be considered in the light of the political initiatives taken by the EU under the CFSP and under Article 8 of the Cotonou Partnership Agreement.

African, Caribbean and Pacific countries

The Cotonou Agreement, signed in 2000, follows on from the previous conventions (Yaoundé, Lomé) and currently provides the general framework for relations between the Union and the 79 African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) States.

The partnership is based on five interdependent pillars:

- reinforcement of the political dimension of relations between the ACP States and the EU;
- promotion of participatory approaches, involvement of civil society, the private sector and other non-State actors;
- development strategies and priorities for the poverty reduction objective;
- establishment of a new framework for economic and trade cooperation;
- reform of financial cooperation.

This framework is reinforced by regional and national components and supplemented by a financial component represented mainly by the European Development Fund (EDF).

The 1957 Treaty of Rome made provision for the creation of the EDF with a view to granting technical and financial assistance, initially to African countries which at that time were still colonised and with which some Member States had historical links.

The EDF does not come under the Community's general budget. It is funded by the Member States, is subject to its own financial rules and is managed by a specific committee.

Each EDF is concluded for a period of around five years, and since the conclusion of the first partnership convention in 1964, the EDF cycles have generally followed the Partnership Agreement and Convention cycles.

Asian and Latin American countries

Council Regulation n° 443/92<sup>3</sup> provides the framework for cooperation between the European Community and the developing countries in Asia and Latin America with a view to promoting their development and reducing poverty. This cooperation includes financial and technical assistance and economic cooperation. It gives priority to promotion of human rights, democratisation and good governance; protection of the environment; trade liberalisation; and strengthening of the cultural dimension.

Financial and technical cooperation is targeted on the poorest sections of the population and of the poorest countries in the two regions. It includes in particular (i) rural development and improving the level of food security in order to reduce poverty; (ii) improving the economic, legal and social environment for the private sector; and protection of the environment and natural resources, especially tropical forests; (iii) special attention for the cultural and human dimensions of development (education, health, social services, democracy, promotion of human rights, participation of women, child protection and respect for the specific cultures of ethnic minorities); (iv) special attention for the structural dimension of development (support for national, regional and local institutions, strengthening of administrative capacities, and good governance); (v) regional cooperation; and (vi) reconstruction following of natural disasters and mitigation of their effects.

Economic cooperation, devised to serve the mutual interests of the Community and the countries receiving assistance, is aimed in particular at countries whose economic development is relatively advanced. It includes (i) improvement of scientific and technological potential in the recipient countries through training schemes and transfer of know-how; (ii) institutional support at both national and regional levels with a view to making the economic, legislative, administrative and social environment more conducive to development and investment; and (iii) support for undertakings or economic partners through training and measures to promote technologies and trade.

As of 1 January 2007 this Regulation was repealed by Regulation n° 1905/2006 establishing a financing instrument for development cooperation (see description of this instrument below).

Central Asia & Eastern Europe countries (excluding accession countries)

The European Union concluded nine Partnership and Cooperation Agreements (PCAs) with countries of Eastern Europe, the Southern Caucasus and Central Asia: Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova, Ukraine and Uzbekistan. The aim of these agreements is to strengthen their democracies and develop their economies through cooperation over a wide range of areas and through political dialogue.

The former TACIS programme, covering the period 2000-2006, was based on the principles and objectives set out in the PCAs and in the trade and economic cooperation agreements concluded between the Union and these countries. It encouraged democratisation, strengthening of the rule of law and transition to a market economy in the New Independent States (NIS) created as a result of the break-up of the Soviet Union. The States comprise Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova, Mongolia, Russian Federation, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Ukraine and Uzbekistan.

As far as cooperation is concerned, the programme paid particular attention to (i) assistance for institutional, legal and administrative reform (development of the rule of law, support for effective policy-making, support for justice and home affairs activities, etc.); (ii) support for the private sector and assistance for economic development (promotion of small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), development of the banking and financial systems, promotion of private entrepreneurship, and so on.); (iii) assistance in addressing the social consequences of transition (reform of the health, pension, social protection and insurance systems, assistance for social reconstruction and retraining, etc.); (iv) development of infrastructure networks (transport networks, telecommunication networks, pipelines, border crossings, etc.); (v) better environmental protection and management of natural resources (alignment of standards on Community norms, sustainable management of natural resources, etc.); (vi) development of the rural economy (land privatisation, improvement of distribution networks, and access to markets).

In addition, the programme sought to support nuclear safety and promote inter-State, inter-regional and cross-border cooperation among the partner States, between the partner States and the European Union, and between the partner States and the countries of Central and Eastern Europe.

Mediterranean Partner Countries

The Euro-Mediterranean partnership between the European Union and the countries of the Southern Mediterranean began in 1995 with the Barcelona Declaration. This Declaration defines three pillars of the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership (EMP): (i) a political and security partnership to achieve a common area of peace and stability (pillar 1); (ii) an economic and financial partnership to create an area of shared prosperity (pillar 2); and (iii) a partnership in social cultural and human affairs to promote understanding between cultures and exchanges between the respective civil societies (pillar 3).

As part of the Euro-Mediterranean partnership process, a new generation of bilateral agreements has been set up between the European Community and its Member States, on the one hand, and the Mediterranean Partner Countries (MPC) on the other. The Euro-Mediterranean Association Agreements, which govern bilateral relations, provide for specific arrangements with each partner country. They share a similar structure and are intended to promote the three pillars of the Barcelona Declaration. Association Agreements (AA) have been signed at different times: currently AAs have been concluded with all MPC, and all are in force with the exception of that with Syria, initialled but signature of which is pending a Council decision.

The MEDA Regulation is the principal instrument of economic and financial cooperation under the Euro-Mediterranean partnership. It was launched in 1996 (MEDA I) and amended in 2000 (MEDA II). It enabled the EU to provide financial and technical assistance to the countries in the southern Mediterranean<sup>4</sup>, namely Algeria, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, Morocco, the Palestinian Territory, Syria, and Tunisia.

The MEDA programme supported:

- economic transition of the MPC and the establishment of a Euro-Mediterranean free trade area by promoting economic and social reforms for modernising enterprises and developing the private sector;
- sustainable socio-economic development through improving delivery of social services and strengthening democracy, human rights and the rule of law ;
- regional, sub-regional and cross-border cooperation.

Neighbourhood countries

The European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP) was first outlined in a Commission Communication on Wider Europe in 2003 and then updated by another Communication on ENP in 2005.

The ENP applies to the EU's immediate neighbours by land or sea: Algeria, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Egypt, Georgia, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Moldova, Morocco, West Bank and Gaza Strip, Syria, Tunisia and Ukraine.

Although Russia is also a neighbour of the EU, relations are instead developed through a Strategic Partnership covering four specific policy areas, the so-called “common spaces”: (i) economic issues and the environment; (ii) freedom, security and justice; (iii) external security; and (iv) research and education, including cultural aspects.

<sup>4</sup> The MEDA II Regulation covered initially 12 countries including Cyprus, Malta and Turkey but has been gradually reduced to the present nine MPC. Israel is only eligible to the regional envelope.

The ENP builds upon existing agreements between the EU and the partner in question (PCAs or AAs in the framework of the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership). The central element of the ENP is the bilateral ENP Action Plans agreed between the EU and each partner which set out an agenda of political and economic reform with short and medium-term priorities.

The European Neighbourhood and Partnership Instrument (ENPI) is the financial instrument for European neighbourhood policy (ENP). It replaces the TACIS and MEDA programmes and is addressed to ENP partner countries including Russia. It offers co-funding for promoting good governance and an equitable social and economic development process. The ENPI also supports cross-border and trans-regional cooperation as well as the gradual economic integration of recipient countries with the EU.

The ENPI supports the following in particular:

- political reform: establishment and adaptation of institutional and administrative capacities, good governance, rule of law, respect for human rights, participation of civil society, multicultural dialogue and the fight against fraud, corruption, organised crime and terrorism;
- economic reform: economic development, development of a market economy, intensification of trade and regulatory convergence with the EU in areas of common interest with a view to gradual economic integration with the internal market;
- social reform: integration, employment, non-discrimination, fight against poverty;
- sectoral cooperation in sectors of common interest in particular: environment, sustainable development, energy, transport, telecommunications, health, food security, education and training, research and innovation;
- regional and local development, and regional integration (Euro-Mediterranean regions and regions of Eastern Europe);
- participation in Community programmes and agencies.

In addition, the ENPI can provide support for electoral observation and post-crisis missions and for disaster preparedness.

South Africa

The EU and South Africa signed an agreement on trade, development and cooperation (TDCA) in 1999 that entered into force on 1 May 2004.

This Agreement pursues several objectives: strengthening dialogue between the parties, supporting South Africa in its economic and social transition process, promoting regional cooperation and the country's economic integration within southern Africa and in the wider world economy, and expanding and liberalising trade in goods, services and capital between the parties. The TDCA established preferential trade arrangements between the EU and South Africa, with the progressive introduction of a Free Trade Area (FTA).

This framework has been complemented by the formation of a specific EU-South Africa strategic partnership in 2007. The purpose of the partnership is to pursue strategic political cooperation and shared objectives with regard to regional, African and global issues. It also seeks to enhance existing cooperation and to extend it to other fields. The essential component of the partnership is active political cooperation. As regards the development of trade relations, the free-trade agreement provided for in the TDCA is replaced by a harmonised regional trade regime under the economic partnership agreement for Southern Africa, incorporating new commitments on matters such as services, government procurement and investment. The strategic partnership also seeks to extend cooperation to regional policy and social cohesion and to step up economic cooperation.

Development Cooperation Instrument

Following the reform of the European Community's financial perspectives, the Development Cooperation Instrument (DCI) was created<sup>5</sup>. Operational since 1 January 2007, it replaces the former ALA, part of TACIS and ten thematic budget lines.

Community aid is implemented through three distinct channels: (i) geographical programmes, (ii) thematic programmes, and (iii) the programme of accompanying measures for the ACP Sugar Protocol countries.

Geographic programmes encompass cooperation with partner countries and regions determined on a geographical basis. They cover five regions, namely Latin America, Asia, Central Asia, the Middle East and South Africa. Community assistance to these countries is aimed at supporting measures within the following areas of cooperation:

- supporting implementation of policies aimed at poverty eradication and at achievement of the MDGs;
- addressing the essential needs of the population, in particular primary education and health;
- promoting social cohesion and employment;
- promoting governance, democracy, human rights and support for institutional reforms;
- assisting partner countries and regions in the areas of trade and regional integration;
- promoting sustainable development through environmental protection and sustainable management of natural resources;
- supporting sustainable integrated water resource management and fostering greater use of sustainable energy technologies;
- assistance in post-crisis situations and fragile States.

Thematic programmes complement geographical programmes and encompass not only the countries eligible for geographic cooperation under the DCI but also the countries and regions eligible under the EDF and the ENPI. The Regulation provides for five thematic programmes relating to:

- investment in human resources ;
- the environment and the sustainable management of natural resources ;
- non-state actors and local authorities ;
- improvement of food security ;
- cooperation in the areas of migration and asylum.

The Regulation also sets up a programme of accompanying measures in favour of the 18 ACP Sugar Protocol countries. The aim of these measures is to support the adjustment process as these countries are faced with new market conditions due to the reform of the Community sugar regime.

1.2 Specialised sectoral assistance instruments

<sup>5</sup> Regulation (EC) n° 1905/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 December 2006 establishing a financing instrument for development cooperation

The EU has developed several specialised sectoral instruments to provide emergency support in politically unstable environments where needs are rapidly changing. These instruments usually include provision for accelerated decision-making procedures and have been designed to ensure that funds for emergency and transitional relief can be mobilised rapidly. They are presented below in chronological order.

Food security

Food aid and special operations in support of food security are an important instrument of the Community's development aid policy.

The framework for the European Community's food aid policy and management and food aid operations was established by Council Regulation n°1292/96<sup>6</sup>. Three main types of aid are identified:

- food aid measures that are mainly short-term;
- operations in support of food security, which include long-term measures designed to ensure sustainable food security; and
- measures to improve early warning systems and storage programmes.

Food aid operations are decided on the basis of an assessment of the needs of the country and take account of the characteristics of the country and its society. The criteria include food shortages; per capita income and the existence of particularly poor population groups; and the existence in the recipient country of a long-term policy on food security.

Operations in support of food security aim to improve the capacities of the recipient countries, including (i) the supply of seeds, tools and other inputs essential to the production of food crops; (ii) schemes for supplying the population with drinking water; (iii) storage schemes at the appropriate level; (iv) measures in support of the private sector for commercial development at national, regional and international levels; (v) schemes in support of local food-aid structures, training and so forth.

Early warning systems and storage programmes entail improving the food security of the recipient countries by strengthening or, in exceptional cases, establishing national and international early warning systems and improving storage systems.

Food aid operations of a humanitarian nature are carried out within the framework of the rules on humanitarian aid.

The Regulation includes special provisions that entitle the Commission to take all necessary measures to speed up the supply of food aid in cases of emergency or serious food shortages.

As of 1 January 2007 these rules were replaced by the Regulation establishing a financing instrument for development cooperation. Indeed, one of the thematic programmes of the DCI concerns food security. This programme supports the development of national food security policies and monitoring systems in order to ensure that a strategic approach to food security is enshrined in national poverty reduction strategies.

<sup>6</sup> Council Regulation (EC) n° 1292/96 of 27 June 1996 on food-aid policy and food-aid management and special operations in support of food security

Rehabilitation and Reconstruction

Council Regulation n°2258/96<sup>7</sup> provides the legal framework for rehabilitation and reconstruction operations in developing countries which have suffered serious damage through war, civil disorder or natural disaster, priority being given to the least developed among them. It concerns African, Caribbean and Pacific countries, the Mediterranean countries, the countries of Latin America and Asia and the developing countries of the Caucasus and Central Asia. Rehabilitation and reconstruction operations are of limited duration and need to be launched as quickly as possible. They aim to help re-establish a working economy and the institutional capacities needed to restore social and political stability to the countries concerned, and meet the needs of the people affected as a whole. The operations must progressively take over from humanitarian action and pave the way for resumption of medium-term and long-term development aid. They must in particular permit refugees, displaced persons and demobilised troops to return home and help the entire population resume normal civilian life in their countries and regions of origin.

The priorities for operations under this Regulation are the re-launch of production on a lasting basis; the physical and operational rehabilitation of basic infrastructure, including mine clearance, social reintegration, in particular of refugees, displaced persons and demobilised troops; and restoration of the institutional capacities needed in the rehabilitation period, especially at local level.

As of 1 January 2007 this Regulation was repealed by Council Regulation n° 1717/2006 establishing an Instrument for Stability (see description of this instrument below).

Rapid Reaction Mechanism

The Rapid Reaction Mechanism (RRM), created in 2001<sup>8</sup>, was designed to allow the Community to respond in a rapid and flexible manner to situations of urgency or crisis or to the emergence of crisis. It triggers actions of a civilian nature to preserve or re-establish, in situations of crisis or emerging crisis, the stability conditions essential to implementation of cooperation policies and programmes.

As of 1 January 2007 this Regulation was repealed by Council Regulation n° 1717/2006 establishing an Instrument for Stability (see description of this instrument below).

Anti-Personnel Landmines

Community mine action is often an integral part of humanitarian aid, rehabilitation, reconstruction or development activities and, therefore, is financed through these various projects. Two specific Regulations on action against anti-personnel landmines (APL) adopted on 23 July 2001<sup>9</sup> complement this support. These Regulations, referred to collectively as the APL Regulation, cover: mine clearance operations (as well as detection surveys, marking and fencing of mined areas); destruction of stockpiles and landmines; local capacity building including mine risk education and training, which ensures that mine-affected countries have the expertise and equipment to address the problem without long-term reliance on external assistance; and finally assistance to victims, including their rehabilitation and socio-economic reintegration.

Operations financed under both Regulations in principle benefit those countries committed to the fight against anti-personnel landmines and which are parties to the Convention on the prohibition of the use, stockpiling, production and transfer of anti-personnel mines and their destruction (Ottawa Convention). However exceptions may be made for humanitarian emergencies, assistance to mine victims and measures in direct support of vulnerable civil communities, or where the national administration is not functioning.

As of 1 January 2007, these rules were repealed by the Regulation establishing an Instrument for Stability (see description of this instrument below).

Aid to Uprooted People in Asia and Latin American developing countries

While the European Community has supported uprooted people in Asia and Latin America since 1984, a dedicated budget for aid to uprooted people (AUP) in these regions was created in 1997. The current legal basis of AUP was Regulation n° 2130/2001<sup>10</sup>, which was extended until 31 December 2006 by Regulation n° 107/2005.

According to the 2001 Regulation, “uprooted” people are:

- refugees as defined in the Convention on the status of Refugees concluded in Geneva on 28 July 1951 and the New York Protocol of 31 January 1967; or
- displaced persons who have been forced to seek refuge outside their region of origin owing to conflict situations but who do not enjoy refugee status; or
- former refugees or displaced persons who have returned to their country or region of origin.

AUP aims at bridging the gap between short-term emergency aid, notably from ECHO, and long-term development assistance. It serves to improve living conditions in camps and facilitate re-integration of uprooted people in their home country or elsewhere. Funded projects variously cover rebuilding of homes, schools and hospitals; ensuring access to drinking water and irrigation; and restoring economic activity. The focus is not only on the uprooted people themselves, but also on host communities and resettlement areas. Several European and regional NGOs, as well as the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), are important partners of the EC in meeting the AUP objectives.

As of 1 January 2007, these rules were repealed by the Regulation establishing an Instrument for Stability (see description of this instrument below).

Instrument for Stability

The Instrument for Stability (IfS) provides on the one hand for development cooperation measures, as well as financial, economic and technical cooperation measures, with partner countries in contexts of crisis or emerging crisis, and on the other hand for stable conditions for cooperation.

<sup>10</sup> Regulation (EC) n° 2130/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 October 2001 on operations to aid to uprooted people in Asian and Latin American developing countries.

The short-term component aims to provide rapid interventions to prevent conflict, support post-conflict political stabilisation and ensure early recovery from a natural disaster. It is used to re-establish the conditions necessary for implementation of the Community's development assistance under other long-term instruments. It focuses on situations of urgency, crisis and emerging crisis; situations posing threats to democracy, law and order, protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms, and the security and safety of individuals; or on situations threatening to escalate into armed conflict or at least severely destabilise the third countries or country concerned.

The long-term component aims to enable the EU to help build international, regional and national capacity to address pervasive trans-regional and global threats affecting countries and peoples whose vulnerability is increasing in a context of globalisation. In addition, it aims to enable the EU to help strengthen international organisations and State and non-State actors' capacities in the field of conflict prevention and post-conflict peace building. The following areas are targeted:

- threats to law and order, to the security and safety of individuals, to critical infrastructure and to public health;
- risk mitigation and preparedness relating to chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear materials or agents; and
- pre- and post-crisis capacity-building.

European Instrument for Democracy and Human Rights

The European Instrument for Democracy and Human Rights (EIDHR) was established in 2006 and became operational at the beginning of 2007.

It aims in particular at (i) enhancing respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms, promoting and enhancing democracy and democratic reform in third countries, supporting human rights defenders and victims of repression and abuse, and strengthening civil society active in promotion of human rights and democracy; (ii) supporting and strengthening the international and regional framework in this field; and (iii) building confidence in electoral processes by enhancing their reliability, in particular through election observation missions and support for local civil society organisations involved in these processes.

To pursue these aims, Community aid supports the following measures:

- promotion of participatory and representative democracy, processes of democratisation, mainly through civil society organisations, in particular: (i) promoting freedom of association and assembly, opinion and expression; (ii) strengthening the rule of law and the independence of the judiciary; (iii) promoting political pluralism and democratic political representation; and (iv) promoting equal participation of men and women in social, economic and political life;
- protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms as proclaimed in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and other international and regional instruments, mainly through civil society organisations.

It builds on the European Initiative for Democracy and Human Rights, created through an initiative of the European Parliament in 1994, which grouped together the previous budget lines that focused on human rights and democracy.

1.3. Selective targeting or withdrawal of Commission co-operation assistance

The Commission's cooperation assistance can be used so as to sharpen political incentives for third countries through selective targeting of assistance or by the threat of withholding or suspending financial assistance. For instance, the prohibition of supplies of petroleum products to certain municipalities of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia in the framework of the 'Energy for democracy' initiative<sup>11</sup> illustrates the selective use of Commission's financial assistance. Similarly, the partial suspension of the TACIS programme in Russia in response to events in Chechnya<sup>12</sup> and the suspension of EDF programmes under article 96 of the Cotonou Agreement are examples of withdrawal of the Commission's cooperation assistance.

1.4 The African Peace Facility

The Cotonou Agreement forms the overall legal framework within which the African Peace Facility (APF) is based. The APF is a specific financing scheme; it is therefore represented in between the Commission cooperation assistance and the political measures in Figure 1. The APF was created by the EU in response to a request made by the African Union Summit in Maputo in July 2003<sup>13</sup>. It is based on the principle of African ownership. It supports African-led peacekeeping operations in Africa as well as capacity-building for the emerging security structure of the African Union (AU). These operations are launched and implemented by the African Union's organisations or by sub-regional organisations. The African Union is required to play a key role in the decision-making process relating to these operations. The AU together with the Regional Economic Communities (RECs) have the right of initiative over the facility, but funding needs to be approved by the Commission and EU MS.

In 2004 an initial €250m was allocated to the APF from the EDF9 and another €300m under EDF10. The sums can be used to finance costs incurred by African countries in deploying their peace-keeping forces in one or more other African countries (cost of carrying troops, soldiers' living expenses, development of capabilities, etc.) but not to cover military and arms expenditure.

2. Political measures

2.1. Political dialogue through CFSP structures

Declarations

Declarations may be made at any time and can be used as a first response to a significant foreign policy event or an emerging crisis. Declarations can be differentiated as follows:

- Declarations by the Presidency on behalf of the EU;
- Declarations by the EU;
- Declarations by the Presidency on its own initiative;
- Statements issued by the Secretary General/High Representative on his own behalf.

<sup>13</sup> Decision 2003/3 of the ACP-EC Council of Ministers of 11 December 2003 on the use of resources from the long-term development envelope of the ninth EDF for the creation of a Peace Facility for Africa.

Démarches

Démarches are often undertaken in connection with the fundamental objectives of the CFSP in order to promote democracy, rule of law, human rights and fundamental freedoms, and peace and international security, through rallying of support for international conventions and instruments (disarmament, non-proliferation, anti-terrorism, etc.).

Diplomatic contacts

These include diplomatic contacts by the Presidency, the EU High Representative, members of the Commission and EU Special Representatives.

2.2. Political dialogue through Article 8 of the Cotonou Agreement

Whereas the Cotonou Agreement provides the basic and broad guidelines for comprehensive, balanced and in-depth political dialogue between ACP countries and the EU, Article 8 of the Agreement is a specific resolution on the ACP-EU Political Dialogue which makes political dialogue an integral part of the partnership. It calls for political dialogue to play a key role in tackling issues and difficulties at an early stage, setting flexible parameters while permitting certain sensitive issues between sovereign states to be included. It also emphasizes the need for the participation of non-state actors in the political dialogue.

2.3. Agreements with third countries and regional organisations

The agreements concluded between the European Community, third countries and regional organisations provide significant channels for political dialogue.

Bilateral agreements<sup>14</sup>

A wide range of agreements between the Commission, EU MS and third countries have been signed, covering political relations, development and cooperation assistance, trade, research, and cultural cooperation. These include:

- Euro-Mediterranean Association Agreements for the Maghreb and Mashreq;
- Partnership and Cooperation Agreements for the countries of Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia;
- various forms of economic partnership, political coordination and Cooperation or Association Agreement with the countries of Asia and Latin America; and
- the ACP-EU partnership agreement for the countries of Africa, the Caribbean and the Pacific.

Relations with regional organisations

Agreements between the EU and regional organisations may provide some potential for leveraging regional action in support of EU CPPB objectives. Agreements have been concluded between the EU and the Andean Pact, Mercosur, and Asean countries. With the Joint Africa-EU Strategy and Africa-EU Strategic Partnership, the EU has a partnership with the AU on peace and security issues. The EU also supports UN efforts to strengthen the capacity of regional groupings in crisis management. Some have a mandate for conflict prevention or peacekeeping (e.g. Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS), African Union, Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE), Organisation of American States (OAS)).

3. Sanctions based on CFSP

Sanctions are the ultimate tool when all political dialogue fails. Several forms of sanctions based on CFSP can be identified:

- interruption of economic and financial relations between the European Community and third countries following a UN Security Council Resolution ;
- autonomous EU measures leading to interruption of economic and financial relations between the European Community and third countries ;
- other restrictions, coordinated by EU MS through a CFSP Common Position and implemented through national measures adopted by EU MS.

In the two first cases, the general procedure requires a Common Position adopted with unanimity, followed by a proposal from the Commission for an implementing Regulation which is then directly applicable across the EU.

Examples of sanctions based on the CFSP include flight bans, freezing of funds, restrictions on investment, embargoes on arms and equipment that can be used for internal repression, and other import and export restrictions.
