Loubna AZGHOUD is COO of Women in Business, the Brussels Governmental Women Entrepreneurship Platform and the Founder of Women in Tech.Brussel, the first women tech ecosystem in Europe, resulting from a partnership between the Brussels government and the private sector. Its mission is to empower women to create their own start-ups and increase the female presence in the innovation sector, facilitating their workplace inclusion. Women in Tech.Brussels has been designated by the European Commission as a governmental innovation. Loubna is also in charge of public policies on gender economy and gender technologies for the Minister of Brussels Economy and she is also part of the "WeGate", the European Commission platform supporting women entrepreneurs and exchanging best practices between European countries. Invested in several associations and against inequalities, Loubna is strongly committed to gender equality. She holds a Master's Degree in Social and Economic Political Science from UCL University, an Advanced Master's Degree in Management and a Certificate in Digital Transformation from ULB Solvay University.